

For the last two decades dr. Andrej Kovacic has served as an advisor to many leaders internationally continuously improving and testing his personal skills to make better employees, better relationships, better contributions and better life. On this journey he has learned from the best and improved several communication techniques to provide the basis of PRO-ACT.

On this basis our team has gathered, developed and tested a wide range of techniques to find out which ones can activate people and organisations to achieve better results in work and in life. PRO-active Communication Techniques (PRO-ACT) are a manifestation of a joint academic and practitioner effort to record and develop techniques that will, if applied, activate your success potential. Our mission is a contribution to a better world of personal development by training these techniques to practitioners, masters and trainers of PRO-ACT. Trainees are able to apply ready-to- use tested techniques to train, consult, coach, consult and make changes in therapy sessions.

Why not learn something today to enjoy so much more tomorrow?
